Driving lessons, finally sorted.

The digital infrastructure of a national driving school: learner discovery, instant booking, cancellation protection and business admin, for the independent instructors who make up the market. Without the franchise. Without lesson commission.

My dad taught for over 20 years. When he restarted, he spent 3–4 months just finding learners, word of mouth eventually saved him. But then the admin followed him home: messages, payments, cancellations, reschedules. He taught 40 hours a week, and was mentally on call 24/7.

Sinan Guckiran · Founder & CEO

Newdryve exists so no instructor has to choose between teaching and running the business.

WHO SUFFERS

newdryve.

It isn't just my dad.

43,334

approved driving instructors in Great Britain

86.4% are independent or local, roughly 37,441 instructors, outside every national brand.

Every one of them is a one-person logistics business.

~18 learners actively training at once, managed single-handed

- Cancellations
- Reschedules
- Progress notes
- Receipts & tax

A third of instructors don't positively agree they achieve a good work-life balance.

The behaviour is proven. The gap is wide open.

National-school apps

AA · RED · BSM

Learners already book, track hours and manage lessons in-app. The behaviour is validated, but it's locked inside the franchise brand.

Instructor SaaS

TotalDrive · MyDriveTime

ADIs already pay monthly for software, TotalDrive alone reaches ~8,600 instructors. But it manages the pupils you already have. It doesn't bring new ones.

The gap

Where Newdryve lives

Nobody brings learners and runs the business for the independent majority. Diary software helps you keep the students you have. Newdryve fills the diary.

One system, the whole workflow.

01

Get learners

A marketplace of local learners discovers verified instructors and books a slot in 60 seconds.

02

Secure the booking

A card is held on file. Cancel inside 48h and Newdryve auto-charges 50%, paid 100% to the instructor.

03

Run the lesson

Own pricing and availability, live lesson tools and progress tracking toward test day.

04

Run the business

Earnings, receipt capture and accountant-ready expense exports, the business system of record.

WHY INSTRUCTORS PAY

newdryve.

We monetise software, not lessons.

LEARNERS

No booking fees, ever. Pay the instructor directly, card, bank transfer or cash.

INSTRUCTORS

£29/mo

Free until the first booking. A flat monthly subscription, no per-booking cuts.

COMMISSION

Keep 100% of every lesson. Newdryve takes nothing, including from the cancellation flow.

The marketplace gets instructors in. The operating system makes them stay.

Win Norwich, then London.

Start in Norwich

Marketplaces fail when supply and demand are spread too thin. Norwich gives us density on both sides in one place:

- → Founder proximity & local ADI insight
- → UEA + Norwich University of the Arts density
- → Prove density here, then run the same playbook in London

Students are the learner wedge: dense, recurring every September, and mostly pre-licence.

2.86m

higher-education students in the UK, 2024/25

29%

of 17–20-year-olds held a full licence in 2023. The majority are still pre-licence.

- → Revenue and repeat-booking data to raise our seed

The others tax the lesson. We don't.

WHAT THE LIVE ALTERNATIVES COST AN INSTRUCTOR

Rated Driving	Charges per lead and a fee per lesson. Enquiry-based: learners wait to be matched, no instant booking.
EzLicence	25% service fee on every lesson, plus payout/account fees.
GoRoadie	£25.99 per lead to unlock a learner's contact, then you're on your own.
Instruct Me	18% booking fee charged to the student, a £40/hr lesson becomes £47.20.
Instructor Go	£30 learner deposit; London-only, negligible traction.
TotalDrive MyDriveTime · BookMeFast	Admin software from £18/mo. Brings no new learners.

0% commission on every lesson

£0 learner platform fee

£29 a month, free until first booking

Learners pay directly, by card, transfer or cash. We don't tax the lesson, we sell the operating system around it.

Why it holds: we become the system of record.

A pure marketplace can be disintermediated once two people have met. A vertical operating system can't, because it stores the instructor's entire business history.

The longer an instructor runs on Newdryve, the more painful it becomes to leave. The marketplace acquires; the operating system retains.

- Lessons & bookings
- Earnings history
- Cancellation records
- Expenses & receipts
- Progress notes
- Learner records
- Payment methods
- Accountant-ready exports

We don't just help instructors find learners. We run the business behind every lesson.

A £13m UK beachhead, then the instructor economy.

REVENUE LADDER · £29/MO

100 instructors	£34.8k ARR
500 instructors	£174k ARR
1,000 instructors	£348k ARR
5,000 instructors	£1.74m ARR
10,000 instructors	£3.48m ARR

UK car-ADI beachhead

£13.0m

37,441 independent/local ADIs × £348/yr

Then the wedge widens:

European markets · instructor insurance & vehicle products.

Optional future lever: a small per-booking learner fee, additional take-rate without touching the instructor's 0% commission.

Newdryve estimates. Car lessons are the wedge into a much broader independent-instructor economy.

The hard questions.

Why won't TotalDrive just copy this?

Their DNA is admin software. The hard part isn't a calendar, it's building local supply/demand density, trust, verification and cancellation enforcement.

Why won't AA or RED crush you?

They're franchises tied to their own branded ecosystems. Newdryve is for the independent majority who don't want to give up pricing, payments and their student relationships.

Why will instructors pay £29/month?

TotalDrive already proves they pay. We add learner acquisition and cancellation protection, one booking or one protected cancellation can pay for itself.

Why no commission?

Commission misaligns us with the instructor. We want to be trusted infrastructure, not a tax on every lesson, subscription gives us predictable SaaS revenue instead.

How do you prevent disintermediation?

The booking is only the entry point. Diary, progress, protection, earnings, receipts and exports become the system of record, leaving gets painful.

Is this venture scale?

The UK car-ADI market is the beachhead. The opportunity is the operating layer for independent instructors, expanding into European markets, plus insurance and vehicle products.
